In three chapters, Chapter 2

Early Monday morning all the family were up and speedy preparations were made for an early start. Breakfast was eaten, things packed and then the start it was only seven o'clock when they set out. The sun had not risen over the lofty peaks yet. There could be no herring on this head as it was rough and narrow. There was not much of a load so Dick and my knot read most of the way, as it came noon they stopped and let the horses browse the bushes while they ate their dinner then after resting a while they started on and did not stop again till about sunset then they unhitched the horses and fastened them to the wheels of the wagon then they got together some firewood and had a fire to cook their supper by for they had shot a partridge as they came along then with their axes they gathered a lot of wood to get for fires during the night soon the fires had to be lit and in a little while Dick and his father layed down and went to sleep they had had slept quite a while when they were awakened by a commotion among the horses, they both set up and looked around and could barely distinguish in the gloom the form of their horses and one other animal, for their fires had about gone out. "Take your gun and come on Dick" said his father, Dick grabbed his gun and started after his father whose form he could dimly see ahead of him. After going a few yards farther Mr. Knat stopped, then came a flash and a report and almost at the same instant a snarl from the direction of the horses and a dark object leaped off into The bushes followed by some dozen or more of the same kind they could hear snarling at intervals. For some time then all was still.

So other animals of the same kind be heard snarling in the woods. Dick and his father fixed up the fires and tried to go to sleep again. But it was impossible so as soon as light they were up and after game and soon returned with a rabbit. This they cooked and then started on and by night were with in seven miles of their stopping place, the next morning about ten they arrived at the city of Dugout and put up their team at the barn of a friend and then did their trading. The next morning they started early in the forenoon and in two days more were home again and Dick owned the mica ground far up on the mountain.

COUNTRIES OF CONTINENT FOREST

CHEPERRA

About fifty years after that Forest Continent was discovered a small band of people landed on this great continent and sent a couple of delegates to Trappers City to ask for a large tract of land on the west coast of Forests Continent. It was granted them so they settled down built themselves log cabins and cleared their lands. There are now several cities in Cheperra and the land is rapidly growing in population. One attraction to this land is that it has the only large oak forest that there is in the world. This forest is very large and abounds in all kinds of squirrels and other animals who live on the nuts. The people are mostly farmers and hunters.

ers. Improvements are not being as rapidly made here as in the United Division when Poplington and Mapleton. Chipewa is level like all the countries on the west coast of it is also quite fertile though the most of it is in forest.

THE NEW ROAD

A new road is being built along Trappers Mountain from Dugout southward. A new city is expected to be built Northeast of Allenstown on the East side of the mountain. This city will be situated on a steep mountain side and the road itself is built in some places nearly perpendicular from here the road keeps on southward for many miles then turns Eastward and goes so far the N. P. boundary. The road is a nice graded road as far as built.

THE GOLD MINE

A good deal of work has been done at Dog-out in the gold and silver mine. Thousands of dollars worth of these precious metals have been taken out. For the last week trains both from New Poplington and Birch Valley have been kept running most of the time carrying off the refuse sand and stone from the mine to put on to the roads.

THE WORLDS FAIR

There are many wonders in the Agricultural and tent. Among them is a sun flower stock fifteen feet tall, corn twenty five feet tall with ears three feet long, radishes from 1 to 1½ feet long, parsnips as long as a mans arm and many other things as wonderful. Among the things out side of the buildings is a cannon of mammoth size into whose mouth an ordinary sized man can walk standing upright, it will also throw a ball a very long distance. Then there is a gun boat built especially for the fair it carries several hundred guns, is bullet proof and a very swift sailer in case of war this boat would do valuable service and make the enemy quake in their boots just at the locks of it. There are other wonders too numerous to mention,
